EGB supply, positioning & flows

Futures positioning: Positioning unwinds

Outstanding: Across the German curve, DU remains the most net-long contract and RX the most net-short (Exhibit 5). Positioning in OE and UB is modestly long. In both Italian and French futures, net positioning is similarly modestly long (Exhibit 7).

Weekly change (Wed-Wed): Net long positioning in DU was reduced, led by new shorts (Exhibit 8). In OE, both long and short positions were reduced, with a larger reduction in shorts leading to increased net long positioning. Positions were also unwound in RX, although the net change resulted in more short positioning.

BTS was the only other contract alongside DU to see an increase in open interest, driven by new longs. In both IK and OAT, shorts were taken off alongside longs, resulting in a modest increase in net long positioning.

Dutch PF: re-balancing continues, barbell strategy forming

Dutch pension funds appear to have broadly maintained their overall EGB exposure in Q2 2026, although modest selling may have occurred given the late-June bond rally (Exhibit 23). The figures below refer to central govt bond holdings rather than transactions and exclude potential additional EGB exposure through debt and mixed funds.

Core: German government bond exposure increased by €4bn in Q2, following a €14bn increase in Q1. Exposure to NETHER and RAGB was broadly unchanged, while RFGB holdings increased by €0.7bn.

Semi-core: OAT exposure fell by €5.8bn, while BGB holdings declined by €2.0bn. In contrast, Irish government bond exposure increased by €0.3bn. This extends the pattern seen in Q1, when OAT and BGB exposure also declined, albeit more modestly, while Irish holdings increased.

Periphery: SPGB exposure increased by €1.1bn, below the €4.3bn increase in Q1 but directionally consistent. PGB exposure was unchanged after rising €0.6bn in Q1. We expected SPGBs to be the preferred peripheral market during the funds' transition, with PGBs a potential alternative. In Q2, 20y PGBs traded around 30-40bp above their Dutch equivalent. Whether exposure increased in Q3 as yields rose should provide further evidence on whether this pick-up is sufficient to attract demand or whether liquidity concerns constrain further allocations. BTPs and GGBs remain on the sidelines, which we expect to continue in the coming quarters.

Other: Consistent with the search for additional yield, corporate bond exposure increased by €17.8bn and SSA exposure by €1.6bn, extending the increases seen in Q1. UST and Gilt holdings fell by €3.4bn and €3.5bn, respectively, also continuing the Q1 trend. Combined holdings of the latter two are now less than €3bn, suggesting that any further rebalancing would increasingly need to come from other holdings.

EGB supply, positioning & flows

Italy: politics in focus, BTPs put to the test

Our two-day Rome trip left us with a clear message: Italy's idiosyncratic macro risks remain broadly contained while uncertainty regarding the political outlook is on the rise. See Impressions from Italy: Oct 2026 for more

BTPs initially proved resilient during the recent sell-off but were eventually pulled wider by weakness in OATs. Since the outbreak of the US-Iran war, 10y BTP-Bund spreads have largely traded as a beta to energy prices and rates, although the relationship has recently weakened as the French sell-off became the dominant driver (Exhibit 1). Relative cheapness should attract some foreign private demand. Domestic investors however appear to have limited capacity to add bonds to portfolios but, following some diversification, could come back to BTPs if levels are attractive enough (Exhibit 2). The front end should remain better supported by retail demand and subdued issuance if rates stay elevated, with a potential S&P upgrade providing an additional tailwind. By contrast, the long end faces a more challenging supply-demand backdrop, given limited scope to reduce issuance further and the risk of slowing inflows to Italian lifers.

France: fragile sentiment, fragile markets

We hosted a fieldtrip to Paris this week - six meetings across French government institutions, politicians, rating agencies and pollsters. See Paris fieldtrip notes: Oct 2026.

Among field trip participants, there was broad agreement on the fact that part of the widening in OAT-Bund spreads had to do with the rise in the overall level of EUR rates, given the higher financing costs weighed on interest expenses and thereby made the budgetary equation more complicated. Interest expenditure is also a metric that rating agencies focus on but those could still argue that France's elevated weighted average maturity of debt means that higher yields would have to persist for longer to have a meaningful impact on total interest burden.

OAT-Bund spreads were seen to incorporate some cheapness related to recent technical flows (eg. stop losses on long ASW positions), but clients noted that the length of the budgetary process, the positioning for increased supply in Q1 and election uncertainty could limit appetite to fade this cheapness. ECB action in case of renewed widening was seen by clients to be focused on verbal intervention, with slowing of QT (Quantitative Tightening) as next step but considered at much wider levels and under contagion to other EGBs. Our baseline of a 100-150bp range for 10y OAT-Bunds in the next few months was seen as optimistic by clients, although many thought peak uncertainty and pressure would be later in 1Q27.

Supply: FI dual tap, GE dual greens, & BTP Valore from IT

Germany offers €1bn across the green Apr29s and Aug53s, Finland offers up to €1.5bn across Apr31s and Sep36s, and Italy offers two 5y BTP Valores.

In Italy, higher coupons and the ISEE exclusion should support stronger BTP Valore demand. Both the Oct-25 and Mar-26 offerings attracted more than €16bn following the exclusion's introduction in 2025, despite average coupons almost 100bp below those offered next week. For comparison, take-up reached €17.2bn in October 2023, when 5y BTP yields were more comparable to today's levels but the exclusion was not yet in place. We therefore expect increased take-up, with €18–20bn within reach in our view.

Appendix

A guide to the BofA Global Investor Survey

Our monthly survey has asked the same two questions since its May 1989 start date: "Relative to your own benchmark, 1) how is your portfolio structured in terms of currency exposure, and 2) how is your portfolio structured in terms of duration exposure?". In December 2011, we added two questions: 1) "How would you describe your view on the following currencies, and 2) how would you describe your view on the following bond markets?". Regarding "exposure", there are five responses from which to choose: Heavily Overweight, Moderately Overweight, Neutral, Moderately Underweight, and Heavily Underweight, while for "view", the equivalent responses are Very Bullish, Bullish, Neutral, Bearish, and Very Bearish. In both cases, responses are weighted to create a Bull-Bear index from -100 to 100, with zero representing neutral.

[1] The formula used to calculate the Bull-Bear Index (B/B) is as follows:

B/B (exposure) = (% Heavy Overweight * 1.0) + (% Moderately Overweight * 0.5) + (% Neutral * 0) - (% Moderately Underweight * 0.5) - (% Heavily Underweight * 1.0).

B/B (view) = (% Very Bullish * 1.0) + (% Bullish * 0.5) + (% Neutral * 0) - (% Bearish * 0.5) - (%Very Bearish * 1.0)

General Investment Related Disclosures:

Taiwan Readers: Neither the information nor any opinion expressed herein constitutes an offer or a solicitation of an offer to transact in any securities or other financial instrument. No part of this report may be used or reproduced or quoted in any manner whatsoever in Taiwan by the press or any other person without the express written consent of BofA Securities.

This document provides general information only, and has been prepared for, and is intended for general distribution to, BofA Securities clients. Neither the information nor any opinion expressed constitutes an offer or an invitation to make an offer, to buy or sell any securities or other financial instrument or any derivative related to such securities or instruments (e.g., options, futures, warrants, and contracts for differences). This document is not intended to provide personal investment advice and it does not take into account the specific investment objectives, financial situation and the particular needs of, and is not directed to, any specific person(s). This document and its content do not constitute, and should not be considered to constitute, investment advice for purposes of ERISA, the US tax code, the Investment Advisers Act or otherwise. Investors should seek financial advice regarding the appropriateness of investing in financial instruments and implementing investment strategies discussed or recommended in this document and should understand that statements regarding future prospects may not be realized. Any decision to purchase or subscribe for securities in any offering must be based solely on existing public information on such security or the information in the prospectus or other offering document issued in connection with such offering, and not on this document.

Securities and other financial instruments referred to herein, or recommended, offered or sold by BofA Securities, are not insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and are not deposits or other obligations of any insured depository institution (including, Bank of America, N.A.). Investments in general and, derivatives, in particular, involve numerous risks, including, among others, market risk, counterparty default risk and liquidity risk. No security, financial instrument or derivative is suitable for all investors. Digital assets are extremely speculative, volatile and are not regulated in a manner similar to U.S. securities markets. In some cases, securities and other financial instruments may be difficult to value or sell and reliable information about the value or risks related to the security or financial instrument may be difficult to obtain. Investors should note that income from such securities and other financial instruments, if any, may fluctuate and that price or value of such securities and instruments may rise or fall and, in some cases, investors may lose their entire principal investment. Past performance is not necessarily a guide to future performance. Levels and basis for taxation may change.

BofA Securities is aware that the implementation of the ideas expressed in this report may depend upon an investor's ability to "short" securities or other financial instruments and that such action may be limited by regulations prohibiting or restricting "shortselling" in many jurisdictions. Investors are urged to seek advice regarding the applicability of such regulations prior to executing any short idea contained in this report.

This report may contain a trading idea or recommendation which highlights a specific identified near-term catalyst or event impacting a security, issuer, industry sector or the market generally that presents a transaction opportunity, but does not have any impact on the analyst's particular "Overweight" or "Underweight" rating (which is based on a three month trade horizon). Trading ideas and recommendations may differ directionally from the analyst's rating on a security or issuer because they reflect the impact of a near-term catalyst or event.

Foreign currency rates of exchange may adversely affect the value, price or income of any security or financial instrument mentioned in this report. Investors in such securities and instruments effectively assume currency risk.

BofAS or one of its affiliates is a regular issuer of traded financial instruments linked to securities or digital assets that may have been recommended or discussed in this report. BofAS or one of its affiliates may, at any time, hold a trading position (long or short) in the securities and financial instruments recommended or discussed in this report.

BofA Securities, through business units other than BofA Global Research, may have issued and may in the future issue trading ideas or recommendations that are inconsistent with, and reach different conclusions from, the information presented herein. Such ideas or recommendations may reflect different time frames, assumptions, views and analytical methods of the persons who prepared them, and BofA Securities is under no obligation to ensure that such other trading ideas or recommendations are brought to the attention of any recipient of this information.

In the event that the recipient received this information pursuant to a contract between the recipient and BofAS for the provision of research services for a separate fee, and in connection therewith BofAS may be deemed to be acting as an investment adviser, such status relates, if at all, solely to the person with whom BofAS has contracted directly and does not extend beyond the delivery of this report (unless otherwise agreed specifically in writing by BofAS). If such recipient uses the services of BofAS in connection with the sale or purchase of a security referred to herein, BofAS may act as principal for its own account or as agent for another person. BofAS is and continues to act solely as a broker-dealer in connection with the execution of any transactions, including transactions in any securities referred to herein.
